

A Guide to Archives and Manuscript Collections related to the Girl Scouts of the USA

Compiled August 15, 2010

David L. Peavy

The following is guide to archives – along with a description of the scope and content of the collection – which contain material related to the Girl Scouts of the United States of America (GSUSA). Because of the amount of primary documents related to the GSUSA in collections around the country, this listing is not to be regarded as complete, however, the most important and significant collections are included and marked (*). Collections are listed by state. It is hoped that subsequent revisions to this Guide will enable it to be more comprehensive.

Additions to this guide will be made upon receipt of additional information. If you're aware of a collection not listed, please send the following information to david.peavy@paxtu.org: Creator of collection, title of collection, name of the repository, location of the repository, a brief description of the scope and content of the collection, and, if available, a URL of the collection/finding aid.

- Meier, Margaret. Margaret Meier Collection of Extreme Right Ephemeral Materials, 1930-1980 (M0688). Department of Special Collections, Stanford University Libraries, Stanford University. Stanford, CA. Contents: The archive consists of 47 manuscript boxes and 9 print boxes. The collection contains Margaret and Herbert Meier's materials documenting the rise and the activities of the extreme right in California and national politics. The bulk of the materials date from the 1960s-early 1970s, with additional materials from the late 1930s through the 1980s. Much of the materials relate to activities and groups in Southern California, where the Meiers lived, especially the towns of Arcadia and Sierra Madre. Included are political ephemera, newspaper and magazine clippings, and serials from extreme right groups such as the John Birch Society, Americanism clubs, various Christian right organizations, republican and extreme right political personalities. A censorship debate regarding the Arcadia Public Library's decision to include Kazantzakis' work, The Last Temptation of Christ, the activities of and opposition to the John Birch Society, and opposition to Senator Kuchel of California are three examples of subjects which are especially well covered. The collection also contains 18 boxes of serials and 3 OS boxes of newspapers, including publications of the John Birch Society and its leader, Robert Welch, the Institute for American Democracy, and Gerald L.K. Smith. MM's notes are found throughout the collection. The processors have made every attempt to retain MM's original order of the collection when possible, and have ordered the unorganized materials in this spirit. A folder concerning the Girl Scouts is included in the collection.

Deleware

Pew, J. Howard. Files on the Pew Memorial Foundation, 1948-1957. Hagley Museum and Library. Wilmington, DE. Contents: Most of the correspondents are grant-seeking individuals and institutions. They include national and international conservative and religious organizations as well as Philadelphia-based cultural institutions. J. Howard Pew considers grants to prevent the communist infiltration of the Boy and Girl Scouts of America. In correspondence with George Wharton Pepper he ponders a donation to the Washington Cathedral. Congressman Walter Henry Judd sends Pew reports on the persecution of Chinese intellectuals in Hong Kong, Macao, and Tawain. In correspondence with several individuals Pew follows the University of Pennsylvania's University Museum of Archaeology and Anthropology's foundation-supported excavation of Biblical sites in the Middle East. Notable correspondents include C. Everett Koop, Norman Vincent Peale, and Herbert Hoover. (Correspondence is brief.) Also contains letters congratulating Pew for starting the Pew Memorial Foundation.

Zimmermann, Marie. Marie Zimmermann papers, 1919-ca.1984 (bulk 1936-1940). Winterthur Museum & Country Estate. Winterthur, DE. Contents: Collection includes sales records, bills for supplies, correspondence about exhibitions and design work, pictures that Miss Zimmermann liked (mostly of Switzerland), photos of antique urns which she used as inspiration for some of her own work, and samples of her stationery and bookplate. Only a few design drawings are included, but there are several lists of items she made. Information about her home and farm in Pennsylvania and some correspondence with a relative are also included. Most of her papers were destroyed at her request. Sales records give the name and address of the customer and a brief description of the item(s) purchased. The records also indicate that Miss Zimmermann repaired jewelry and silver and restrung necklaces. Some of the correspondence is about sales, commissions, and exhibits; some of it pertains to the business side of her work, especially insurance, and to her artwork; and some of it is personal. Bills for supplies and for work done for her by others shed light on her business practices. A number of the insurance policies were written to cover her pieces while they were on exhibit in a museum or gallery. Consequently, lists of the items being covered are appended to the policies. Collection also includes newspaper clippings reviewing Miss Zimmermanns' exhibits. Several magazine articles mention her as a distinguished craftsperson, while one magazine includes an article she wrote about decorative metal work. Only a very few design drawings are part of the collection, including designs for knives, forks, and decorative metal work. As well, a few additional sketches of her pieces appear on bills or on a list of her works. www.winterthur.org

(Jane) Peacock during her term as Historian for the Atlanta Town Committee of the National Society of Colonial Dames of America in the State of Georgia. Five of the six interviews are conducted by Mrs. Peacock; one is conducted by Mrs. Barry L. Frazier. The following women are interviewed: Louise Richardson Allen, wife of Ivan Allen, Jr., former Mayor of Atlanta; Leila Daughtry Denmark, the third woman to graduate from the Medical College of Georgia and creator of a Pertussis vaccine (for Whooping Cough); Laura Whitner Dorsey, an active volunteer for the Atlanta Junior League and Arts Alliance and co-founder of Gardens for Peace; Dorothy Felton, member of the Georgia State House of Representatives; Betty Foy Sanders, wife of Carl Sanders, former Governor of Georgia; and Bazoline Estelle Usher, former Supervisor of Education for Minority Pupils in the Atlanta Public Schools and a leader in the integration of the Girl Scout Council of Northwest Georgia. These six women were chosen for the project because they "made a difference" in Atlanta. They discuss the roles they each played in shaping the city, as well as the historical events that affected their lives. The collection contains original tapes and transcripts of six interviews. The actual tapes are housed with the Audio Collection.

Anderson Family. Collection. Georgia Historical Society. Savannah, GA. Contents: This collection consists of three anonymous diaries written from 1869 to 1897 that are presumed to be those of Nina Anderson, wife of Colonel Edward Clifford Anderson, and her daughter, Nina Anderson Pape. The two later diaries record Pape's travel through England, France and Germany. Also included in this collection are an account book for the estate of Edward Maffitt Anderson, recorded at the time of his death; a receipt book for Mrs. W.F. Godkin from the 1870s; a signature book inscribed to Sarah "Sallie" Wayne Anderson (b. 1853) from 1869-1876; a folder of newspaper clippings, 1874-1876; a copy of a letter sent to E.C. Anderson, 1904; an undated inventory of a part of the collection; and five photographs of soldiers thought to be members of a German rifle club, the Savannah Schutzen Gessleschaft, at Greenwich Plantation, Savannah, in 1891. The folder containing photographs is noted as "VM" (visual materials) in the collection inventory.

Bullard, Elizabeth Millar. Collection. Georgia Historical Society. Savannah, GA. Contents: This collection consists of materials primarily concerning the family genealogy of Elizabeth Millar Bullard (1861-1941). She was born on March 19 in Columbus, Georgia, the daughter of Horace Pratt and Julia Silva Bullard. A 1925 graduate of the University of Georgia, Mrs. Bullard married Bernice Frost Bullard (1854-1916) on December 3, 1891. Mr. Bullard was a prominent dealer in naval stores in Savannah, in addition to being an organizer of the Atlantic National Bank in Jacksonville, Florida. Mrs. Bullard was a prominent philanthropist in Savannah, devoting her time to a variety of local organizations. She served as a curator of the Georgia Historical Society, as a member of the board of trustees for Telfair Museum and Art Academy, and was involved in the Girl Scouts of Savannah, the Poetry Society of Georgia, the Colonial Dames, Georgia Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, and United Daughters of the Confederacy. The papers are arranged into two series: genealogical; personal. The genealogical series includes a register of deaths and burials in Savannah, 1803-1806. Also included in the collection are photographs of Louisa Young Barry, 1885, and undated images of headstones for the Millar and Bullard families. The collection contains a typescript of "Register of Deaths and Burials in Savannah, 1803-1806."

Duncan, Johnston Edith, and Walter Charlton Hartridge. Collection. Georgia Historical Society. Savannah, GA. Contents: This series consists of Edith Duncan Johnston's personal and business correspondence, unpublished articles, speeches, subject files, genealogical notes, an unpublished biography of her sister Eugenia, and an unpublished manuscript on the Campbell family.

Farinholt, Katharine Woltz. Collection. Manuscript, Archives, and Rare Book Library; Emory University. Atlanta, GA. Contents: The collection consists of papers of Katharine Woltz Farinholt from 1930-1984. Materials include correspondence, newspaper clippings, diaries (1926, 1934), scrapbooks, student papers, and ephemera relating to the Woltz family, education at Gastonia (N.C.) High School, Agnes Scott College, and Emory University; correspondence, lecture notes and newspaper clippings, relating to Farinholt's teaching career at Westminster Schools (Atlanta, Ga.); articles, book reviews and correspondence concerning Farinholt's publications and a copy of the typescript of her novel, ALEXANDER'S DAUGHTER. The collection also includes correspondence, notes, and printed material pertaining to Farinholt's volunteer and social activities including the Girl Scouts of America, the Colonial Dames, All Saints Episcopal Church (Atlanta, Ga.); scrapbooks, travel journals, postcards and memorabilia from travels in North America, Western Europe, and China; correspondence reflecting Farinholt's political interests, including letters relating to the women's movement; and photographs and certificates relating to awards Farinholt received. This collection documents Farinholt's interest in education, politics, and social issues.

Gordon Family. Collection. Georgia Historical Society. Savannah, GA. Contents: The Juliette Low papers consist of 5 boxes which are arranged in the following categories: personal matters; financial matters; property, will and estate matters; and Girl Scout matters. The first category, personal, consists mainly of personal correspondence from 1874-1926. Also included are: writings by and about Juliette Gordon Low; poetry by or collected by J.G. Low; newspaper clippings, mostly concerning English friends, collected by J.G. Low; a horoscope and other miscellaneous material. (Cont.) Financial matters consist of; financial correspondence to and from and concerning J.G. Low, receipts; cancelled checks; and records of accounts and investments. (Cont.) Property, will, and estate matters includes legal documents and a few pieces of correspondence relating to these documents. This material is concerned with the property settlement between William Mackay Low and Juliette Gordon Low; the will of Juliette Gordon Low; and papers relating to the estate of J.G. Low. (Cont.) Girl Scout matters consist of: correspondence from 1912-1926, and undated; speeches relating to Girl Scouts by J.G. Low; history of the Girl Scouts; legal documents relating to the Girl Scouts; Girl Scout merit badges, and other insignia; and miscellaneous material relating to the Girl Scouts.

GSUSA Council of Savannah. Collection. Georgia Historical Society. Savannah, GA. Contents: This collection consists of the papers of the Girl Scout Council of Savannah. They provide insight into the broad range of local, regional, and national programs in which this Council has been involved. The records range from administrative - annual reports, minutes, financial reports, membership, correspondence - to the Girl Scout Troop files. Some of the local and national programs include the Children's Council of Chatham County, Family Service of Savannah, Juliette Low World Friendship Program, and the National Association of Girl Scout Executives. This collection also contains information on the Girl Scout day camps administered by the Council: Camp India, Skidaway Point, Isle of Hope, and Camp Walleila.

———. Collection. Georgia Historical Society. Savannah, GA. Contents: This collection consists of papers regarding the Geechee Bowl Game. On December 30, 1949, the Girl Scout Council of Savannah sponsored the Geechee Bowl Football Game. It was hoped to be an annual event, but it did not succeed. The Jefferson Atlantic Club for Boys of Savannah played the Coastal Carolina All-Stars. Included are correspondence, a list of daily newspapers in Georgia and South Carolina and the official releases sent to them, financial papers, and a program from the Bowl.

Also included are programs of annual meetings of Georgia State Federation of Colored Women's Clubs, 1921, 1928, and 1930. As Maude Heyward was a librarian at the Savannah Public Library and a genealogist for the Colonial Dames of America, these materials are assumed to have been collected by her.

Hoxie, W. J. Collection. Georgia Historical Society. Savannah, GA. Contents: Walter John Hoxie was born in Rochester, New York, graduated from Putnam Free School, served for a short time in the Astronomical Division of the U.S. Coast Survey, and then became a school teacher. He taught, in chronological sequence, at Tyng Academy, Tyngsboro, Massachusetts; Bridgewater Normal School, Bridgewater, Massachusetts; Plantation School and the Normal School for Freedmen, both on Lady's Island, South Carolina; Boston Farm School, Boston harbor, and various other places in Massachusetts. He removed to Frogmore, South Carolina on St. Helena's Island in 1879, and to Savannah, Georgia, in 1901, where he lived until 1927. Hoxie then moved to St. Petersburg, Florida, where he spent the remainder of his life with his daughter. He was a recognized authority on birds and spent some months in 1888 collecting specimens in Florida for the U.S. Biological Survey. Hoxie's home near Savannah was at Bona Bella. He formed a nature group for young girls, many of whom became members of the first Girl Scout troop when it was organized by Juliette Gordon Low. He wrote the first Girl Scout Handbook, titled "How Girls Can Help Their County." He has been called the foremost naturalist in the South and wrote over 500 articles for newspapers and magazines. This collection consists of personal correspondence, articles, clippings, and photographs concerning the Girl Scouts of America, photographs of nature subjects, some original poems, and a number of glass negatives.

Johnston, Edith Duncan. Collection. Georgia Historical Society. Savannah, GA. Contents: This collection consists primarily of Edith Duncan Johnston's research and writing. There are a few personal papers, mostly greeting cards sent to her in her later years. The research, notes, and drafts of The Houstouns of Georgia comprise a large portion of this collection. Johnston compiled clippings and information about the events following the publication of the book into several scrapbooks which she titled "The Legend of the Houstouns." The writings also include her memoirs of the early days in the Girl Scout movement in the United States and various historical sketches of early Georgians. Johnston also compiled several scrapbooks relating the history of Savannah, its people, events, and architecture. Also included in the collection are personal and family photographs, as well as images collected by Johnston for her scrapbooks and her research. The majority of images are identified. Subject matter includes photographs from trips up the east Coast and into Florida; photographs of the Savannah Historical Pageant; military encampments; and Sunday school picnics. Photographs in her scrapbooks include images of buildings in the Savannah Historic District that are now demolished; photos of Houstoun descendants and the ancestral home; and photos of Georgia plantations, including Wild Heron and Mulberry Grove. The photo album of September 1898 includes photos of New Castle and other miscellaneous New Hampshire locations; Jamaica Island; miscellaneous non-Georgia islands; Johnston family members; Halifax; Washington, D.C. and Mt. Vernon; Greenwich, Connecticut; photos on board the ship Kansas City on the return trip; Johnston children playing; 1st Texas and 2nd Louisiana Regiments and their transport leaving for Havana, December 24, 1898; interior of Christ Church; views of Savannah; interior views of 217 East Charlton St.; Rome, Ga.; North Carolina; Strathy Hall, Bryan County, Ga.; Sunday school picnics on Warsaw Island; Charleston, S.C.; Professor Morton's School for Boys; Chautauqua, N.Y.; circus parade (probably in Chautauqua, N.Y.); Elizabeth, N.J.; cavalry encampment held at Fair Grounds, July 1903. Property, will, and estate matters includes legal documents and a few pieces of correspondence relating to these documents. This material is concerned with the property settlement between William Mackay Low and Juliette Gordon Low; the will of Juliette Gordon Low; and papers relating to the estate of J.G. Low. Girl Scout matters consist of: correspondence from 1912-1926, and undated; speeches relating to Girl Scouts by J.G. Low; history of the Girl Scouts; legal documents relating to the Girl Scouts; Girl Scout merit badges, and other insignia; and miscellaneous material relating to the Girl Scouts.

———. Collection. Georgia Historical Society. Savannah, GA. Contents: This collection consists of one letter dated April 17, 1923 from Mrs. Juliette Gordon Low to Mr. Robinson of the Park and Tree Commission, in which she asks him to come look at an ailing magnolia tree on her property.

Pape, Nina Anderson. Collection. Georgia Historical Society. Savannah, GA. Contents: This collection consists of three anonymous diaries written from 1869 to 1897 that are presumed to be those of Nina Anderson, wife of Colonel Edward Clifford Anderson, and her daughter, Nina Anderson Pape. The two later diaries record Pape's travel through England, France and Germany. Pape took an active part in the founding of the Girl Scouts in Savannah and was associated with that organization in several capacities for many years. She was nationally recognized as an outstanding educator and belonged to many national organizations in the field. She was an active member in several philanthropic, cultural, and social organizations in Savannah. Her brother was Edward Maffitt Anderson (1843-1923). Also included in this collection are an account book for the estate of Edward Maffitt Anderson, recorded at the time of his death; a receipt book for Mrs. W.F. Godkin from the 1870s; a signature book inscribed to Sarah "Sallie" Wayne Anderson (b. 1853) from 1869-1876; a folder of newspaper clippings, 1874-1876; a copy of a letter sent to E.C. Anderson, 1904; an undated inventory of a part of the collection; and five photographs of soldiers thought to be members of a German rifle club, the Savannah Schutzen Gessellschaft, at Greenwich Plantation, Savannah, in 1891. The folder containing photographs is noted as "VM" (visual materials) in the collection inventory.

———. Collection. Georgia Historical Society. Savannah, GA. Contents: This collection consists of personal papers, travel diaries, postcards, and an address book belonging to Nina Anderson Pape. Included are her European travel diaries, 1906-1924, her personal diaries including some information on Pape School and the early history of the Girl Scouts, and meeting notes from educators meetings in New York and Ohio. Also in the collection is a diary of Edward C. Anderson (Nina Pape's father), 1857-1860, containing notes on planting, household accounts, and plantation information.

Reddy, Marie Elizabeth, and Anne Louise Reddy. Collection. Georgia Historical Society. Savannah, GA. Contents: This collection consists of various papers of Anne and Marie Reddy. The collection contains correspondence, notes, programs, invitations, certificates, membership cards, news clippings, and some materials from the various organizations that these women were involved in. There is a large group of materials pertaining to the Savannah Audubon Society, including minutes and financial information. There is also material on the Girl Scouts, the Poetry Society, United Daughters of the Confederacy - Savannah Chapter, Society of Mayflower Descendants, and Magna Charta Dames. The various organizations include Colonial Order of the Crown, American Association of University Women, Plantagenet Society, Society of Descendants of Knights of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, Huntington Club, Daughters of the American Revolution - Bonaventure Chapter, Sovereign Colonial Society Americans of Royal Descent, Kappa Delta Pi - Kappa Chapter, Project Head Start, Alpha Delta Kappa - Epsilon Chapter, Order of Washington, and Association of Childhood Education. The programs and invitations file includes programs from the dedication of the carving on Stone Mountain, annual dinners of the Revolutionary Battle Park, and Georgia Day as well as wedding invitations. Most of the material dates from the 1940s-1950s. The oversized folder contains certificates. There is a 1916 certificate to Anne from the Savannah Normal School of Play and Physical Training, a 1925 certificate of membership to Marie for the Daughters of the American Revolution, Bonaventure Chapter, and two certificates of membership to Anne and Marie for the Huguenot Society of South Carolina, dated 1971. Marie's diploma from the University of Georgia (1935) is also in this folder. This collection consists of 3 folders of photographs. The first folder contains pictures of people and 1 picture of the old Hermitage plantation home (after it was no longer lived in). The other two folders contain over 80 pictures of ironwork in Savannah. About half of the ironwork photographs were identified and are in folder 2. The unidentified photographs of ironwork are in folder 3. In 1943, Anne Reddy gave a slide show presentation on ironwork in Savannah at a joint meeting of the Savannah Historical Research Association and the Georgia Historical Society. These photographs may have been taken for this presentation. The folders containing photographs are noted as "VM" (visual materials) in the collection inventory.

Bowman, Gertrude L. Papers, 1914-1967. Historical Materials, Herbert Hoover Presidential Library and Museum. West Branch, IA. Contents: Close friend and assistant to Lou Henry Hoover, Girl Scout leader and executrix of the estate of Lou Henry Hoover. The collection is comprised of 4 folders (½ box) of correspondence, Xerox copies of selected scrapbook items, and clippings. The correspondence largely concerns the Herbert Hoover house at 2300 S Street No. W., Washington, D. C., and the "Little House," it a structure operated by the Girl Scouts of America. The principal correspondent is Lou Henry Hoover. Correspondence inclusive dates are 1925 - 1939, the Xerox copies of selected scrapbook items inclusive dates are 1914-1955, and the clippings inclusive dates are 1930-1965.

Brigham, Margaret Hoover, and Gertrude L. Bowman. Collection, 1910-1983 (bulk 1925-1965). Historical Materials, Herbert Hoover Presidential Library and Museum. West Branch, IA. Contents: Although this collection was donated by Margaret Hoover Brigham, oldest grandchild of Herbert and Lou Henry Hoover, it was, in the main, generated by Gertrude Bowman, a family friend and co-executor of Mrs. Hoover's Washington, D.C. estate. Mrs. Bowman was active in the Girl Scout movement while serving as an unofficial secretary and general factotum to Lou Henry Hoover. Of interest to researchers are documents giving an account by Mrs. Bowman of Lou Henry Hoover's funeral service in New York, the administration of the Hoover home at 2300 S Street in Washington, and the settlement of Mrs. Hoover's estate. Also of reference value are clippings and other printed materials and a limited amount of correspondence with Herbert Hoover, Jr., his brother Allan, and their father, Herbert Hoover.

Hoover, Herbert. Belgian-American Educational Foundation Papers, 1920-1964. Herbert Hoover Presidential Library and Museum. West Branch, IA. Contents: Correspondence, memoranda, reports, minutes of meetings, financial reports, clippings and printed materials relating to the educational programs of: the BAEF, the American Child Health Association, the American Relief Administration, the Belgian child health project, the Better Homes in America movement, the Commission for Relief in Belgium, the Hoover Institution, and the U.S. Food Administration. Also included are files concerning the annual meetings and benevolence fund of the CRB/ARA Association. These files occasionally provide important glimpses into the inner workings of the CRB, the U.S. Food Administration and the ARA, especially the Russian relief effort of 1921-23 which was conducted by the ARA. Child welfare organizations in both countries have benefitted extensively from grants made by the BAEF and its sister organization in Belgium. These have included programs as diverse as the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts, the Women's Division of the National Amateur Athletic Federation, the Hoover Institution (Stanford, CA), the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, underwriting for White House conferences on child health and home ownership during the Hoover administration, and support for the programs of the American Child Health Association and the Better Homes in America movement. Other projects have included funding for the rebuilding of Belgian university libraries destroyed in World War I, food relief packages for Belgian intellectuals during World War II, and a Belgian child health project in the middle 1920's, focused on dental hygiene, which brought Belgian teachers to the U.S. for in-service training.

Hoover, Lou Henry. Papers. Historical Materials, Herbert Hoover Presidential Library and Museum. West Branch, IA. Contents: Born in Waterloo, Iowa in 1874, six months before her future husband, Lou Henry grew up as somewhat of a tomboy. Her father Charles Henry actively encouraged this, frequently taking her hiking and fishing. Later she would fondly recall that her intense commitment to the Girl Scout movement really began "when my father took me hunting, fishing and hiking in the mountains. Then I was sorry that more girls could not have what I had. When I learned of the movement I thought, here is what I always wanted other girls to have." Mrs. Hoover's contributions to the growth of the Girl Scout movement included several terms as President, Honorary President and as a national board member. Her papers provide new details, revealing her enormous success as a fund-raiser and the impact of her sage counsel and influence in the movement. Her scouting files, which comprise a major portion of the Girl Scouts and Other Organizations series, are supplemented by copies of numerous speeches and articles on the Girl Scout philosophy contained in the Subject File series. An interest in wholesome outdoor activities for women and girls is also reflected in Mrs. Hoover's involvement as President of the Women's Division of the National Amateur Athletic Federation from its inception in 1923 until its merger with the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation in 1939. Extensive files concerning the NAAF's philosophical bases and the development of its program may be found in the Girl Scouts and Other Organizations series.

Hartman, Margaret Strebel. Margaret Strebel Hartman papers, ca. 1962. Special Collections, William T. Young Library, University of Kentucky. Lexington, KY. Contents: These materials consist of a printed copy of LA GRANDE TOUR OF LA BELLE RIVIERE and a typescript of TRADESMEN IN NEWPORT, 1839-40. Both were written by Mrs. Hartman in about 1962. LA GRANDE TOUR ... was apparently written as a script to be presented aloud during a tour of historic sites in Kentucky planned to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Girl Scouts of America. The tour, which at the beginning closely followed the route of the Ohio River, included Point

Pleasant, Ohio, and Maysville, Washington, Campbell Mountain, Blue Licks State Park, Paris, Lexington, Frankfort, and Carrollton in Kentucky. The script gives background information on the various sites to be visited. TRADESMEN IN NEWPORT relates the early history of Newport, Ky., including the laying out of the town and information on early settlers and tradesmen. It contains an alphabetical list of the residents of Newport taken from the 1839-40 CINCINNATI AND COVINGTON DIRECTORY.

Taylor, Mable French. Papers, 1880-1960 (bulk 1949-1952). Somerset Community College Library. Somerset, KY. Greater Minneapolis Council of Churches. Council of Churches records, 1905-1996. Minnesota Historical Society. St. Paul, MN. Contents: Subject files, minutes, reports, membership and committee data, financial records, correspondence, newspaper clippings, subject files, and similar materials documenting the activities of a voluntary association of Protestant and Orthodox churches in the Twin Cities Metropolitan area organized to work together for the welfare of the community and to foster cooperation among the area's many Protestant churches. The Minneapolis Church Federation was organized in 1927 from a merger between the Minneapolis Council of Churches and the Council of Religious Education, and in 1951 the organization assumed its present title. Other substantive files concern the council's women's organization (1927-1985); the ecumenical movement, especially relating to Catholic participation and to Christian-Jewish relations; children and young adult programs; the Council's activities in the area of civil rights and race relations; and the provision of chaplains and other religious services to prisons, nursing homes, and other institutions. The Division of Indian Work section documents the Council's work in combating many urban Indian social problems, including stocking food shelves, aid in low cost housing, heating assistance, chemical dependency programs, encouraging Indian self-help activities, resolving children's and youth problems, and making holiday donations. The collection includes administrative files of the council and of its divisions, departments, and programs. Units represented in the collection include Christian Education/Educational Ministries, Indian Work, Social Ministries, Ecumenical Relations/Faith in Dialogue, Social Services/Chaplaincy Services, and Women's organizations. Major programs include Congregations Concerned for Children, Meals on Wheels, Minnesota FoodShare, and Metro Paint-A-Thon. The collection also includes records from the Twin Cities Metropolitan Council of Churches, an overarching organization facilitating communication with other area church councils. Within the records of each of these units are found minutes, correspondence, and subject files. Materials on the following activities are found in records of the education units: Christian youth council, ecumenical youth encounter, life and leadership schools, Protestant committee on scouting, weekday church schools, and vacation church schools.

New York State War Council. Office of Civilian Mobilization. Collection. New York State Archives. Albany, NY. Contents: This series contains correspondence created during cooperative efforts between the OCM, state and federal agencies, and private organizations in an effort to coordinate, publicize, and implement programs designed to involve the citizens of New York State in home front activities. Correspondence between the OCM and state agencies relates to program development and implementation and volunteer recruitment. The OCM and agencies such as the Department of Agriculture, State Committee on Child Care, Department of Education, Food Commission, Farm Manpower Service, and Department of Health concentrated on developing plans and priorities, solving problems, assessing needs in the localities, and assisting local war councils with program implementation. Correspondence with federal agencies is of a more informational nature. Recommendations for operating procedures to ensure cooperative relationships, promotion of the federal agencies' programs, and use of volunteers in the programs are discussed. Included are copies of publications, summaries of conferences held in Washington, D.C., and copies of talks given at national conferences from agencies such as the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Office of Price Administration, Office of Defense Health and Welfare Services of the Federal Security Agency, and the Defense Office of Transportation. In addition to gathering information within New York State, the OCM exchanged publications and reports with other states. This series contains many of these reports addressing the effects of war on welfare services and operation of the other states' defense councils. Requests from libraries in other states to the OCM for publications are numerous. Colleges also conducted workshops and other programs designed to increase awareness about defense issues. A major participant and source of expert advice was the Department of Home Economics at Cornell University. Cornell distributed information about food conservation, organized nutrition committees in counties and cities, and promoted these efforts by directing the home demonstration agents program. The College of Agriculture at Cornell cooperated with the U.S. Department of Agriculture Extension Service to create a report series that addressed issues such as farm labor, marketing, and farm machinery. Vassar College became involved in community planning and hosted the Civilian Training Institute for Family and Child Care Services in War Time. In addition to correspondence, the schools also sent informational reports and newsletters to the OCM produced as a result of their efforts. The OCM coordinated its actions with private organizations to reduce confusion about who was responsible for program administration. Placing the OCM in charge of recruiting volunteers to participate in the organizations' activities created a workable compromise. The series contains correspondence between the OCM and such organizations as Community Chests and Councils, Council of Social Agencies, Girl Scouts, State Charities Aid Association, and the United Service Organization. In an effort to consolidate volunteer recruitment within New York State, the OCM was given full responsibility for recruiting for itself as well as for the Office of Civilian Protection (OCP) and for compiling OCP progress reports from the counties. Much of the correspondence between the OCM and OCP relates to coordinating cooperative efforts. Procedures for the OCP programs such as air raids, artificial lighting in dimout areas, use of air raid shelters, and operation of control centers and report centers are also included. The OCM also corresponded with the federal Office of Civilian Defense (OCD) offices in New York City and Washington. The OCD in New York City was the central location for the Second Civilian Defense region. It served as a liaison between the Washington OCD and the state OCP in an effort to promote federal defense programs through exchange of publications and organizational plans. The OCD in Washington acted as a liaison with federal agencies to coordinate programs which would then be distributed to the states and implemented in the counties where they would be best utilized. This office encouraged central leadership, so much of the correspondence addresses procedures, unified action and planning, and gathering and disseminating information from all states.

Rockefeller Jr, John D. Collection. Rockefeller Archive Center. Sleepy Hollow, NY. Contents: John D. Rockefeller, Jr. joined his father's personal office on October 1, 1897, and became his father's closest associate in the growing philanthropic activities of the office. Although Mr. Rockefeller, Sr. made only occasional visits to the office after 1897, he maintained close contact with it's activities./ In 1897, there were seven employees in the office, by 1960, the number had grown to over 200. John D. Jr.'s five sons joined the office during the 1930's./ Under the guidance of Rockefeller, Jr. and a small number of close associates, the office supervised a growing number of diversified philanthropies. During his lifetime he gave over $550,000,000 to many charitable projects. This collection documents the activities and interests of three generations of the John D. Rockefeller family. In light of the activity of the Rockefeller foundations in the BSA, other collections located at the Rockefeller Archive Center should be examined for possible BSA material.

Seton, Ernest Thompson. Collection. Department of Library Services, American Museum of Natural History. New York, NY. Contents: Photocopies of Seton's correspondence, many typed from the handwritten original, are primarily letters addressed to him. Correspondence with scientific institutions concerning his publications, bird life, and observations of wildlife, especially of Manitoba, Canada. Much correspondence devoted to his position as one of the founders of the Boy Scouts of America and correspondence with Robert Baden-Powell, Daniel Carter Beard, and other officials reflects plans, activities and other matters of this organization. Other papers pertain to his involvement with the Woodcraft League. Reference is also made to Girl Scouts of America and Camp Fire Girls of America. Seton corresponded with many prominent individuals such as William T. Hornaday of the New York Zoological Society, C. Hart Merriam, and John Burroughs, in addition to many natural history clubs and scientific societies. Also included in collection are letters Seton wrote from Paris and New York City, many referring to personal and family business and finances, and other matters, 1890s; manuscripts of articles he wrote about the American West and articles of animal fiction stories. A few letters written about Seton after his death complete the collection.

The Davison Fund Inc. Collection. Rockefeller Archive Center. Sleepy Hollow, NY. Contents: The Davison Fund was established by John D. Rockefeller, Jr. in 1930 to systematize his personal giving. The instrument creating the Fund contained neither instructions as to beneficiaries nor limitation as to field. In general, the program developed from two motivations: an interest in the social, cultural, educational, and health needs of New York City and its environs, and the recognition of the importance of "certain problems which cut across national and international boundaries and which invite the cooperation and support of thoughtful men everywhere." These records were transferred by the Rockefeller Foundation to the Rockefeller Archive Center. The collection includes correspondence, minutes, dockets, reports, bulletins, policy and procedure files, and vouchers. Approximately two-thirds of the records consist of correspondence and reports relating to grants. In light of the activity of the Rockefeller foundations in the BSA, other collections located at the Rockefeller Archive Center should be examined for possible BSA material.

Thomas Asylum for Orphan and Destitute Indian Children. Collection. New York State Library. Albany, NY. Contents: The series consists of black and white photographs depicting children and staff of the school at work and recreation, as well as the structures of the school and its physical environment and surroundings. The exact purpose for which the photographs were taken is not known, but they document the conditions of facilities and the work and educational environment of the school, and may have supported a request for funds for capital improvements or expansion. Occasional cropping directions indicate some may have been used in publications. The subjects of the photographs include: individual and group portraits of children and staff (many at graduation, school exercises, fair exhibits, or as part of class or team sport groups); children's class exercises and work activities (especially farming and gardening); Indian Boy and Girl Scouts (including Frank Beauvais and Clarence Blueye, first Indian Eagle Scouts in the U.S.); interior views of buildings; exterior views of administration, residence, school, hospital, and farm buildings and grounds; buildings under construction; and aerial views of grounds. Most photographs are undated and unlabeled; when not stated, subjects have been assigned by Archives staff. Sizes range from 3" x 4" to 8" x 10" and some are mounted.

North Carolina

Coates, Albert. Albert Coates papers, 1916-1980s. Southern Historical Collection, University of North Carolina. Chapel Hill, NC. Contents: Office and personal files of Albert Coates and his wife, Gladys Hall Coates. Boxes 1-6 contain materials, 1941-1965, relating to North Carolina nonprofit organizations, apparently collected by Coates in preparation for a study of these agencies at the local administrative level. Included are annual reports and publications of a variety of social and community organizations, like the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts. Also included are materials about regional organizations arranged by place name, reports of various committees of the North Carolina Governor's Commission on the Status of Women, and information about other North Carolina and national agencies. Miscellaneous items included two original manuscripts by Coates, "The Many Lives of North Carolina Women," and "Palingenesis: An Example." Boxes 7-36 contain chiefly office files, many of which relate to Coates's tenure with the Institute of Government. Boxes 37-43 contain letters, telegrams, wedding invitations, bills, report cards, course materials, and other papers. <http://www.lib.unc.edu/mss/inv/c/Coates,Albert.html>

Gordon Family. Gordon family papers, 1810-1968. Southern Historical Collection, University of North Carolina. Chapel Hill, NC. Contents: Many items relate to W.W. Gordon's family life, Confederate Army service, cotton trade activities, and military and diplomatic service during the Spanish American War. Correspondence and account books relate to W.W. Gordon & Company and its predecessor firms. Family materials include much correspondence between Nelly and her mother in Chicago. During the Civil War, these letters show the fear of family members separated by the struggle. Also included are several letters documenting the great Chicago fire of 1871 and its aftermath and letters relating to Nelly's difficult relationship with Daisy, who struggled with deafness as a child. G. Arthur Gordon papers reflect his cotton merchant activities; interests in politics, including correspondence with brother-in-law, Richard Wayne Parker, lawyer and long-time New Jersey congressman; Gordon's civic and the Georgia State Troops involvement. And his position as chief family confidant. While there are some Juliette Gordon Low papers relating to the Girl Scouts, among them correspondence with Robert Baden-Powell, most items relating to Daisy document her life in England, her unhappy marriage to William Mackay Low (Willie), and the economic consequences of his death as the couple contemplated divorce. Mabel Gordon Leigh papers relate chiefly to family affairs and to her World War I relief activities. Margaret Gordon Seiler (Peggy), daughter of George Arthur Gordon, and her husband, the Reverend

Robert S. Seiler, are represented by letters relating to their posting to Manila, Philippines, with Church World Service, 1963-1968. <http://www.lib.unc.edu/mss/inv/g/Gordon%5FFamily.html>

Department of Education, Subject Files, 1980-1999. Museum of Fine Arts, Houston. Houston, TX. Contents: The Subject Files document the involvement of the education department in arts education as well as the Houston area art community. Subjects of note in the 1980s include involvement with the Cultural Arts Council of Houston (CACH) including the Multi-Cultural Arts Committee, participation in the Texas Art Education Association, the Texas Art Education Association, and the Texas Institute for Arts in Education. Subjects of note in the 1990s include the writing and evaluation of the Lillie and Hugh Roy Cullen Sculpture Garden brochure, involvement in the American Association of Museums (including a 1996 presentation by Education Director Beth Schneider), the artist in residence program at Houston Independent School District (HISD), and participation in the National Art Education Association programs and conferences including the 1995 Annual Conference in Houston. The grant files subseries reflects the involvement of education staff in the grant writing process, however additional information may be found in the files of the development office. Of special interest is the documentation of the Lila Wallace: A Place for All People project, an attempt to make the museum a central to the lives of all people in the Houston area. Special attempts were made through this project to bring the world of art to an underserved population, as documented here. In addition, these files record the activities of education staff in assisting other institutions in the grant writing and evaluation process.

———. Records; 1929-1950 (bulk 1965-1976). River Falls Area Research Center, Wisconsin Historical Society Archives, University of Wisconsin. River Falls, WI. Contents: Records concerning girl scouting in River Falls, Wisconsin, including scrapbooks, printed materials, individual members' records, and materials documenting merit badge projects and other activities. Girl Scouting was introduced in River Falls in 1928. By 1935, when the local council was formed, there were three registered troops. In 1947, at the apparent height of scouting in River Falls, the city had eight Girl Scout troops and three Brownie Scout troops. Although there are occasional references to the Brownies, the records are mainly those of several Girl Scout troops in River Falls. They fall into two distinct time periods, 1930-1950 and 1965-1976; there is an unexplained lack of documentation of any kind for 1950-1965. The collection has been separated into four series: Activities, Records, Printed Material, and Scrapbooks.

McCormick, Cyrus Hall. McCormick-IHC Collection, 1880-1937. Wisconsin Historical Society. Madison, WI. Contents: Routine records of philanthropic donations by Chicago industrialist McCormick to a variety of organizations and individuals. Grouped by recipient, the files typically include a letter of appeal, McCormick's or his secretary's response, his secretary's letter enclosing the check, letters from the recipient thanking him for the money, and occasional correspondence between McCormick and his secretary on how much to give; all enclosed with a slip for each recipient identifying the subject with remarks on what the donation was for. The individuals

McCormick gave to varied from people asking for a few dollars to large yearly donations. Organizations represented include those concerned with world peace, Native Americans, education, the Presbyterian Church of Chicago and the United States, women's and children's charities, and Chicago area philanthropies. Miscellaneous volumes in the series are donation record lists, docket, financial record books, and YMCA International Committee subscription books.

University of Wisconsin (River Falls) Faculty Women's Club. Faculty Women's Club, 1914. Area Research Center & University Archives, University of Wisconsin. River Falls, WI. Contents: This collection contains minutes of meetings, early and revised constitutions, rosters of members, correspondence, programs, and other materials relating to the Faculty Women's Club. 2005 additions to the collection include clippings, correspondence, photo and scrap books, and record books (1964-2000).

UWRF Faculty Women's Club. Records, 1914- (Series 89). Area Research Center & University Archives, University of Wisconsin. River Falls, WI. Contents: This collection contains minutes of meetings, early and revised constitutions, rosters of members, correspondence, programs, and other materials relating to the Faculty Women's Club. 2005 additions to the collection include clippings, correspondence, photo and scrap books, and record books (1964-2000). The philosophy of the organization always underscored sociability over money-making. Nevertheless, the group has continually supported a variety of charitable and civic causes. For example, the club awarded annual scholarships, donated milk and clothing to the needy, and contributed to such organizations as the American Red Cross, the Girl Scouts, the Salvation Army, the American Legion, and the March of Dimes.

UWRF Pigeon Lake and Clam Lake Field Stations. Pigeon Lake/Clam Lake Field Station Records, 1959-1997. Area Research Center & University Archives, University of Wisconsin. River Falls, WI. Contents: The University of Wisconsin System acquired the Pigeon Lake and Clam Lake Field Stations to serve as centers for studying, teaching, and research in any discipline in which learning can be enhanced by utilizing a natural, relatively undisturbed, wilderness environment./ Pigeon Lake Field Station: Pigeon Lake Field Station is located in the southwest part of the Washburn Ranger District in the Chequamegon National Forest. The field station is four miles west of Drummond, Wisconsin, in northern Bayfield County. The camp was originally constructed in the early 1930s to house members of the Civilian Conservation Corps. From 1938 to 1959, the field station was used by Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, church groups and other organizations. On July 14, 1959, the land was purchased from the U.S. Forest Service by the Board of Regents of State Colleges under a surplus property arrangement. Over the next 16 years, the field station increased in size from 11.5 to 50 acres. In 1973, the State Universities and the University of Wisconsin merged. The Board of Regents passed a resolution approving the Articles of Agreement. This agreement formed the basis for the Pigeon Lake Field Station Consortium and provided guidelines for operation of the field station until 1982. In 1982, the Board of Regents dissolved the consortium and transferred responsibility for the field station to UW-River Falls. The university is responsible for the financial and academic administration of the program. During the summer, many college students attend Pigeon Lake to earn credits in courses such as art, biology, business and teacher education. The credits earned are resident credits for any of the member campuses of the University of Wisconsin System. The field station is also open for educational meetings, non-credit programs and private use by individuals and groups./ Clam Lake Field Station: Clam Lake Field Station is located in the Hayward Ranger District of the Chequamegon National Forest, 35 miles north of Park Falls, Wisconsin. The facilities at Clam Lake were constructed in the mid-1960s to house the Clam Lake Job Corps

Conservation Center. In 1969 the Job Corps facilities were made available to state governments for "Socially Useful Purposes." In 1970, the Board of Regents obtained title to the vast majority of personal and real property associated with the center. The collection contains administrative records from 1959 through 1997. Budget reports, building projects, correspondence, food service and instructor information are contained in this collection. Additionally, there are written histories of Pigeon Lake, summer class brochures, photographs, slides, programming brochures and policy information. Also included in the collection are early records from Clam Lake Field Station, which mainly encompass the years 1960 through 1975.
